COMMISSIONER LAWRENCE F. O'BRIEN

Concilliator, mediator, administrator, Lawrence F. O'Brien, 58, was elected the third Commissioner in the 31-year history of the National Basketball Association on April 30, He succeeded Walter Kennedy, who had served since 1963. Maurice Podoloff was the league's first Commissioner, serving from 1946 until 1963. In his short time in office, O'Brien has brought the Oscar Robertson suit to a conclusion, helped bring about a new collective bargaining agreement with the players, negotiated an expansion agreement with the American Basketball Association, and signed the most lucrative television contract in league history. A native of Springfield, Mass., O'Brien received his law degree from Northeastern University in 1942. He directed John F. Kennedy's senate campaigns in 1952 and 1958 and his presidential campaign in 1960, following which he became Democratic national chairman. Starting in 1961 he was special assistant for congressional relations to Presidents Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson and then in 1965 was named Postmaster General. In 1968 he again was named Democratic National Chairman and it was his offices which were burglarized in 1972 in the Watergate complex. O'Brien's autobiography "No Final Victories" was published by Doubleday in 1974 and reprinted by Ballantine in paperback form in 1975. He is married to the former Elva Brassard of Springfield, Mass., and son, Lawrence F. O'Brien, III, is an attorney in New York.

RAY PATTERSON PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER

Ray Patterson was named President and General Manager of the Houston Rockets on May 1, 1972, after having served four years in the same positions with the Milwaukee Bucks. In those years, the Bucks won one World Championship, two division titles, and made the playoffs three years.

Now, after four years in Houston, where the Rockets have qualified only once for the playoffs, how does Patterson equate the two situations?

"In professional basketball, winning can be accomplished by the acquisition of a true super-star, as was the case in Milwaukee with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, or by a step-by-step improvement over the years, relying heavily on from eight to 12 players, such as the Boston Celtics," explains Patterson. "Of the two approaches the latter is the more reliable in building a sound, solid franchise. I came here intent on building steady improvement each season, at the same time maintaining credibility with the fans who won't always provide you the luxury of time. But I sense that over the years we are building up a loyal and increasing coterie of supporters."

Reflecting back on his four years in Houston, Patterson describes his first two seasons as a "dismantling and rebuilding process. The first two years may be described as getting up off the ground. The last two years we reached a level of respectability where we proved we could play .500 basketball. Actually, our 81-83 record the last two years ranks seventh best in the N.B.A., with only six clubs showing a two-year winning record. Now we are entering a different or higher stage of development where we can and should be consistent winners."

But Patterson hastens to add: "After being analytical, hypothetical and philosophical, I'd still love to win a championship this season."

Patterson, 54, was born in Lafayette, Ind., but attended Wayland Academy in Beaver Dam, Wis. He played four years of varsity basketball at the University of Wisconsin under Coach Harold (Bud) Foster, and was team captain, leading scorer and most valuable player in both his junior and senior years. He received his Bachelor's degree in Science in 1945 and later earned a Master's degree in Science from Wisconsin.

The 6-3 Patterson played three years with the Flint, Mich. team in the old National Basketball League and then returned to the University of Wisconsin as an assistant basketball coach. In 1953 he returned to his former prep school, Wayland, as head basketball coach. When Patterson was named President and Headmaster of the school in 1957, he named present Rockets head coach Tom Nissalke to succeed him as basketball coach. As a high school senior, Nissalke had played for Patterson.

When Milwaukee was granted an N.B.A. franchise in 1968, Patterson was selected by the board of directors of that franchise to become first president of the Bucks.

Patterson, wife Ruth, and their three youngest children, Liz, Peggy, and Peter, reside in Sugarland, Tex., while oldest son, Pat, a Princeton University graduate, is employed on the West Coast, and son, Steve, is a sophomore at the University of Texas.

TOM NISSALKE HEAD COACH — HOUSTON ROCKETS

Tom Nissalke, 42, succeeded John Egan as head coach of the Houston Rockets April 20, 1976. Nissalke, previously head coach of three A.B.A. teams and one N.B.A. club, has fashioned a reputation in his profession of getting the most out of his players, having taken mediocre teams and twice building them into two of his three playoff participants.

The Madison, Wis. native also is known as a defensive teacher, and he can claim the distinction of being the only head coach in the nine year history of the A.B.A. whose team, the 1973-74 San Antonio Spurs, had a defensive mark under 100 points. Rockets defense, last in the N.B.A. last season, is probably the biggest area where Nissalke will concentrate: "We'll have to be more physical," he says, "so we don't get pushed around. You can't be a consistent winner on the road unless you have hardnosed guys."

Nissalke's offensive theories lean to a patterned, disciplined-type game, but not to a slowdown: "It is better to avoid the running game until the players and the coach know each other thoroughly. We have the shooters for a running game, but we don't have great speed, so we'll try to strike a medium. I want our players to get the ball downcourt quickly, but if the shot isn't there, we'll bring it back out and start all over. Most of all, I want to give Houston fans an exciting and enjoyable game, a good show that in the end gives them a victory that will bring them back."

After playing prep basketball under Rockets president Ray Patterson at Wayland Academy in Beaver Dam, Wis., Nissalke graduated from Florida State University in 1957, having lettered in both basketball and baseball. He returned to Wayland as head coach for five years, then was an assistant at Wisconsin for a year, and then was an assistant at Tulane University for five years, including his final year there as interim head coach.

One of the first men hired when Milwaukee was granted a pro franchise in 1968, Nissalke assisted head coach Larry Costello for three years, including the World Championship season of 1970-1971.

In 1971 Nissalke was named head coach of the A.B.A. Dallas Chaparrals. Taking over a club which had a 30-54 mark the previous season, he led it to a 42-42 record and a playoff spot, a feat which earned him A.B.A. Coach of the Year honors in his first season as a pro head coach. The following year he was named head coach of the N.B.A. Seattle team, but was released at mid-season.

Returning to the A.B.A. with the San Antonio Spurs in 1973-74, he took a club which was 28-56 the previous season and guided it to a 45-39 mark and into the playoffs. At the start of the 1974-75 season, Nissalke's Spurs were 17-10 when San Antonio management decided to make a coaching change.

In February, 1975, Nissalke took the head coaching job with the Utah Stars who went 14-14 the rest of the season and gave him his third playoff berth. He began last season as Utah's head coach, but the franchise folded after 16 games. Prior to taking the Houston job, Nissalke had been scouting for the Milwaukee Bucks.

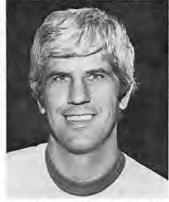

Last summer Nissalke was head coach of the Puerto Rico Olympic basketball team and his club almost had the upset of the Olympics before losing by a point to the Gold Metal winning United States team.

Nissalke, his wife, Nancy, son Tom, and daughter Holly, reside in Conroe, Texas.

DEL HARRIS, ASSISTANT COACH

Del Harris, 38, was named as assistant coach of the Houston Rockets Aug. 14, 1976, having finished the 1975-76 season as an assistant under Coach Jerry Pimm at the University of Utah after starting the season as an assistant to Rockets head coach

Tom Nissalke with the A.B.A. Utah Stars who folded after 16 games. A native of Plainfield, Ind., Harris is a 1959 graduate of Milligan (Tenn.) College and received a Master's degree from Indiana University in 1965. Starting his coaching career in 1959, his teams at Johnson City, Tenn., and Roachdale, Dale and Spencer, Ind. compiled a five-year 79-36 mark. In 1964 he began nine years as head coach at Earlham (Ind.) College, compiling a 175-70 record, but during his last seven years his teams averaged over 20 wins and went to post-season tournaments. During 1974-75 he coached the Iberia, Spain team to third place in the European Pro League. For seven summers, 1969 through 1975, Harris coached in the Puerto Rico Pro League. He has had two books published by the Parker Division of Prentice-Hall, "Multiple Defense for Winning Basketball"

(1971), and "Coaching Basketball's Zone Offense" (1976). He is a member of the National Speaker's Association. Harris and wife, Joyce, have four children; Larry, 13, Alex, 12, Stan, 7, and Carey Ann, 6.

GENE PETERSON, VOICE OF THE ROCKETS

Gene Peterson, 35, was named director of broadcasting and play-by-play voice of the Houston Rockets July 23, 1975. Peterson will broadcast all eight pre-season games and all 82 rerular season games on KXYZ Radio-1320. Prior to joining the Rockets Peterson was sports director of KPRC Radio for a year. A native of Albert Lea, Minn., Peterson studied broadcasting at the Brown Institute in Minneapolis, Minn. After three years of Air Force duty he began his radio career in 1963 with KBRK Radio in Brookings, S.D. He also has worked at WECL Radio in Eau Claire, Wis.; KOB Radio in Albuquerque, N.M.; and was at KCMO Radio in Kansas, Mo. for six years before joining KPRC here in July, 1974. He and wife, Marsha, reside in Northwest Park in Houston with their three children, Todd, 13; Jenhifer, 10; and Paul, 4.

JOHN JOHNSON 6-7 200 Forward-Guard

Age: 29 Birthdate: October 18, 1947

Birthplace: Carthage, Mississippi

High School: Messmer (Milwaukee, Wis.) Junior College: Northwest (Powell, Wyo.)

College: Iowa, 1970

Years Pro: 6

How Acquired: Trade from Portland for Steve

Hawes, Nov. 13, 1975

Pro High Game: 40, with Clev. vs. Bullets,

12-16-71

Married: Wife: Mica Child: Jeremy, 3

John Johnson at 29 is the oldest player on the Rockets roster, though he, Rudy Tomjanovich and Calvin Murphy, both 28, are beginning their seventh season in the pro ranks. John was the seventh player taken, by Cleveland, in the first round of the 1970 college draft. He spent three seasons with Cleveland, making the All-Star game his first two seasons there. In 1973 he and Rick Roberson were traded to Portland for a first round draft pick and following just over two seasons there he came to the Rockets for Steve Hawes on November 13, 1975. Last season John averaged 9.9 points a game, falling just eight points shy of his sixth straight double figure scoring season. But the reason for that was his total playing minutes were about 600 less than in any of his prior campaigns. Nevertheless, he comes into this season with a 15.0 per game career scoring mark. At one time, two years ago at Portland, when the Blazers had the likes of Geoff Petrie, Sidney Wicks and Bill Walton, the-then coach Lenny Wilkens said he believed "JJ is the best allaround player on our club. Johnson at times can be one of the most potent offensive threats in the entire league, with his guick jump shot from medium range. And he also ranks as quite a ball-handler for a 6-7 player." In fact, at times last year he was called on to play in the back-court and acquitted himself admirably. As a starter in Portland in 74-75 he hit for 20 or more points on 32 occasions. His high game as a Rocket was 23 points against the World Champion Boston Celtics. John was an all-Big Ten performer at the University of lowa where he holds the single season scoring mark of 699 points for a 27.9 average in 1969-70. John played at Northwest Community College in Powell, Wyoming for two years before moving on to lowa. He has been a prep All-American at Messmer High School in Milwaukee. Wis.

DWIGHT JONES 6-10 220 Forward-Center

Age: 24 Birthdate: February 27, 1952

Birthplace: Houston, Texas

High School: Wheatley (Houston, Texas)

College: Houston, 1974

Years Pro: 3

How Acquired: Trade from Atlanta for

Gus Bailey and Joe Meriweather and exchange of 1st round draft

picks, June 7, 1976

Pro High Game: 33, with Atl. vs. Houston,

3-2-74

Married: Wife: Diane

Child: Dwikeesha Diante, 1

When Dwight Jones was playing varsity basketball on the high school and college levels in his hometown of Houston, the season never ended on time. There was always post season tournament competition. In his three years as a pro with Atlanta, the season has ended for him on schedule. No games after regular season. Now the Houston Rockets are hopeful Dwight Jones can help in extending their season into the playoffs. The Houston-born Jones led Wheatley High School to 101 victories in 103 games and to three straight Class 4A state basketball championships while averaging 25 points and 30 rebounds a game. In his two varsity seasons at the University of Houston, Jones and the Cougars compiled a 43-11 record and earned two N.C.A.A. berths as Jones averaged 17.6 points and 13.7 rebounds. Prior to his junior year he was the starting center on the 1972 United States Olympic team at Munich. "I was very pleased to have been wanted by the Rockets and I think I'll get a chance to play forward, which is the spot I prefer," says Jones. New Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke has plans for Jones: "I think he can be recycled into a superb rebounder with power. If he plays with intensity, he can do some job for us." Playing both center and forward at Atlanta, Jones never seemed to have found his niche there, averaging little over a half a game playing time, nonetheless, averaging better than ten points and nearly nine rebounds over the past two seasons. "I've never really been physical, but I haven't tried to duck contact either. A year ago I weighed around 210 going into the season. This year I figure on reporting at about 220, I can handle it. I'm going to be a lot more active," says Jones. Another thing Jones has going for him is his age. Having been a first round selection of the Hawks as a hardship case following his junior year of college, he is only 24 years old and already has three pro seasons of experience.

A couple of seasons ago, when the Houston Rockets acquired their first seven-foot center, the word was that Kevin Kunnert with some experience and more aggressiveness could be the stabilizing center the Rockets needed to become a winner. Since arrival here from Buffalo on February 1, 1974, Kunnert and the Rockets have won 95 and lost 95, not quite earth-shaking but quite an improvement when compared with the 77-113 mark in the previous 190 games. Kevin has shown a marked improvement each of his three pro seasons and last year led the Rockets in rebounding with a 9.8 average. Only seven N.B.A. centers had more than Kevin's 787 rebounds, while only four other pivotmen topped his 267 offensive rebounds, which set a Rockets team mark. It is noteworthy, however, that Kevin averaged only 29.2 minutes per game playing time compared with the 40-plus most of the league's starting centers were averaging. On the scoring end Kevin averaged nearly 13 points a game while hitting almost 50% from the field with most of his shots coming on his unorthodox short jumper. "People kid me a lot about how strange the shot looks but since I've been around 50% or better with it most of my career, I'll just live with it and endure the laughs," says Kevin. He also says one of the attributes he has developed over this three pro seasons is the ability to concentrate. "I think when I started in the pros, I tended to stand around and watch the play. Now I try to make things happen, stealing a pass, going after a loose ball, blocking a shot or rebounding." 6-2 when he was a high school junior and 7-0 by the time he reached the University of Iowa, Kevin went on to become lowa's all-time rebound leader, having topped the Big Ten Conference in rebounds in both his junior and senior years and having the league's best field goal percentage as a senior. A first round draft pick of Chicago in 1973, he was traded to Buffalo along with Gar Heard for John Hummer and a second round draft pick prior to the 73-74 season.

CALVIN MURPHY 5-10 165 Guard

Age: 28 Birthdate: May 9, 1948 Birthplace: Norwalk, Connecticut

High School: Norwalk College: Niagara, 1970

Years Pro: 6

How Acquired: College Draft, 2nd Round,

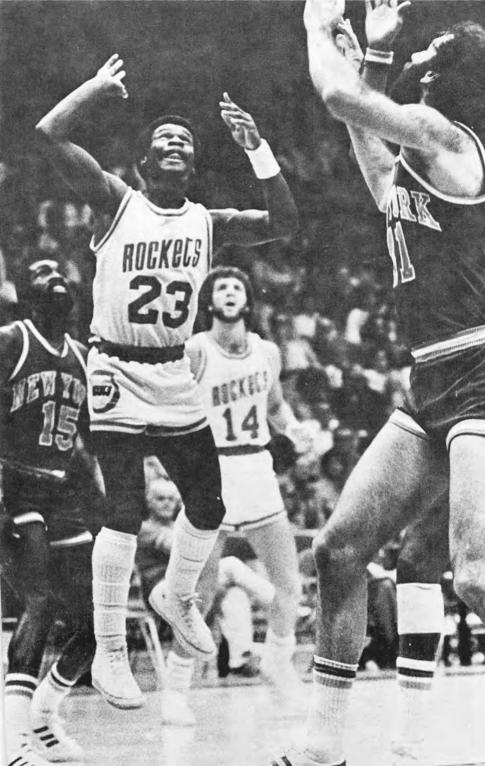

1970

Pro High Game: 45, vs. Buffalo, 12-28-74

Married: Wife: Vernetta Children: Tiffani, 6; Traci, 5

Calvin Murphy's father was 6-2, his mother around six-feet tall. Calvin figured he might turn out to be the giant of the clan. But he stopped growing around the 5-10 mark while in high school. But what he lacked in vertical assets, he made up for in the horizontals speed, quickness and phenomenal shooting skills. And last season, his sixth as a Rocket, was his best scoring season ever, 21.0 points a game, 11th in the N.B.A. He also had his best free throw percentage ever, .907, during the course of which he broke Bill Sharman's 19-year old record for consecutive free tosses made good. Murphy hit 58 straight, breaking Sharman's old mark of 56 in a row. Calvin's career free throw mark of .875 is surpassed on the all-time list only by Rick Barry, .890, and Bill Sharman, .884. Aside from the scoring end of the game, Murph's 7.3 assist average was third in the league. In the Seagram's Seven Crowns of Sports computer evaluation competition for productivity and consistency, Murphy was the only quard named in the top seven players in a competition topped by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Julius Erving, Murphy's 17.9 career scoring average is the best among the present Rockets. He needs only 378 points to become the Rockets all-time leading scorer, his 8,619 points exceeded only by Elvin Hayes' 8,996. All of his accomplishments, however, have not changed him in the least. "I still consider myself one of the peons, so to speak. My so-called popularity has never done anything to me as far as taking me away from the reality of who I am. You can tell by the way I spend my summers. I spend a lot of spare time with the kids who were raised just like I was raised." says Murphy. He does a lot of personal appearances also for the Rockets, but it's the kids whith whom he really enjoys working. He stresses to them that you "can't rely on breaks, but on education and work, work, work," One of college basketball's all-time scoring greats while at Niagara, his 33.1 career scoring mark is exceeded only by Pete Maravich, Austin Carr and Oscar Robertson.

MIKE NEWLIN 6-5 200 Guard

Age: 28 Birthdate: January 2, 1949

Birthplace: Portland, Oregon

High School: St. Francis (LaCanada, Ca.)

College: Utah, 1971

Years Pro: 5

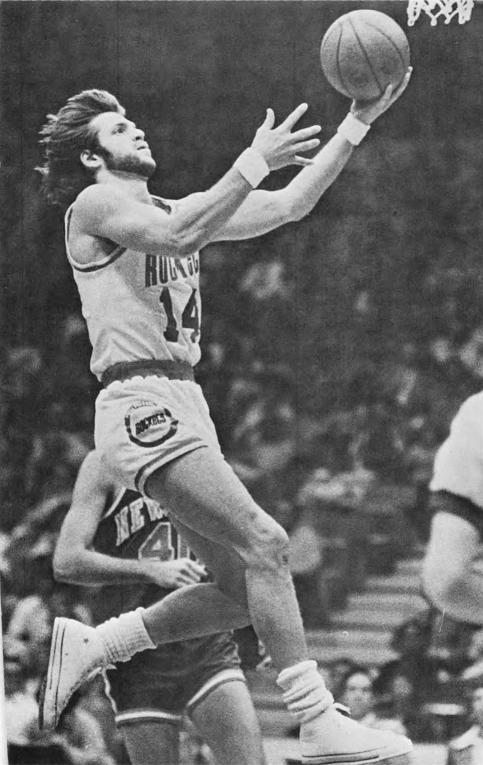

How Acquired: College Draft, 2nd Round, 1971

Bachelor

Competitive, coachable, cooperative and complex have been some of the adjectives used in describing Houston Rockets veteran guard Mike Newlin. Add complete to the list. Newlin just had his finest individual season as a member of the Rockets. He scored more, had more assists, and shot better from the field than in any of his five seasons as a Rocket. His 18.6 points a game was second on the team to Calvin Murphy's club high 21.0. Mike was the only N.B.A. guard to place in the league's top ten in both field goal and free throw percentage. He and Seattle's Fred Brown were the only guards to rank in the top ten in at least three of the league's seven individual statistical categories, Newlin sixth in free throw percentage and tenth in both field goal percentage and assists, while Brown was fifth in both scoring and free throw percentage, and tenth in steals. Newlin and Murphy were the only Rockets to play in all 82 games. Moreover, the duo started every game. It was the third season in which Newlin had played in every game, and in his five pro years he has missed only nine games of a possible 410. Mike also reached the N.B.A.'s all-time free throw percentage list. His career mark of .858 is surpassed only by Rick Barry. Bill Sharman and teammate Murphy. Probably because he was a magna cum laude graduate in English at Utah, observers have regarded Mike as a "thinking player." But he disputes that, claiming he has stopped "thinking" on the court, particularly with regard to everyone else's game. "I used to worry that so-and-so wasn't getting enough shots, or another guy wasn't getting the ball enough, and this was hurting my effectiveness. I have come to believe it is each player's job to play his own game and fit it into the team concept, and to play as hard as you can every night," explains Newlin. Second to Bill McGill on Utah's all-time scoring charts. Mike was a three-year All-Western Athletic Conference performer. A bachelor, he spends his off-season in the Houston area, getting in lots of golf and tennis, and making numerous appearances on behalf of the Rockets.

TOM OWENS 6-10 220 Center Forward

Birthplace: Bronx, New York

High School: LaSalle (Manhattan, N.Y.)

College: South Carolina, 1971

When the Houston Rockets drafted Tom Owens in the fourth round of the 1971 draft, the club had no way of knowing it would take Tom five years to come from the University of South Carolina to Houston. But that's what happened. Tom signed in the A.B.A. with Memphis, began the 71-72 season there, then was traded to Carolina. In 74-75 he moved with the Carolina franchise to St. Louis but five games into the season was traded to Memphis. Prior to the 1975-76 season Tom finally signed a Houston Rockets contract and actually reported here. But he was held to the option year of his A.B.A. contract and then really started traveling. Leaving Houston he joined the Kentucky Colonels, who had claimed him in a dispersal draft following the folding of the Baltimore Claws who had moved from Memphis. After 19 games with Kentucky, Owens was sold to Indiana where he played in 16 games. Then he was purchased by the San Antonio Spurs, ending the season and his A.B.A. career there, and for the fourth straight season being on an A.B.A. playoff team. And now, finally, he's with the Rockets, where Coach Tom Nissalke plans to give him extensive use in the center position. He has played both forward and center in the pros after being used only as a forward at South Carolina where he led the Atlantic Coast Conference in rebounding for three straight years while setting the school rebound mark of 13.3 per game. Tom's .522 career field goal percentage ranks as one of the highest in the history of the A.B.A. and would trail only Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Wilt Chamberlain on the N.B.A. list.

ED RATLEFF 6-6 185 Forward-Guard

Age: 26 Birthdate: March 29, 1950

Birthplace: Bellefontaine, Ohio

High School: East (Columbus, Ohio) College: Long Beach State, 1973

An on-again, off-again defense has been a major drawback in preventing the Houston Rockets from breaking into the N.B.A.'s higher echelon. However, the consistency on defense of "Steady" Ed Ratleff has been a bright spot. Widely recognized as one of the best defensive small forwards in the league, a Rockets starter for most of the past two seasons after a so-so rookie campaign, Ed sees reason for future optimism. "Our defense hasn't been that good, but it has reached the point where we avoided a long losing streak last season. The two years previous to that it seemed that if we lost three or four, we'd go on to lose six or seven in a row," he explains. Indeed, it did not happen last year, the Rockets never losing more than three games in a row until very late in the season when the playoff berths had been decided. Ratleff's defensive consistency shows up on the stat sheet. Last season he was runner-up for the team steals lead and third in blocked shots after leading the team in steals the previous year when he also was third in blocked shots. One of three Rockets with a better than 80% career free throw completion mark, Ed showed his charity tossing skills at New Orleans last March 3 when he hit on 17 of 19 tries to go with the eight field goals for his career high game of 33 points. The 17 free throws made tied the Rockets record set back in 1967 by John Block. A two-year consensus All-American, Ratleff is Long Beach State's all-time scoring leader and top rebounder. That school's 75-12 three-year mark and three N.C.A.A. berths during Ratleff's years is the top record by any current Rocket's collegiate team. Ed and new Rockets teammate Dwight Jones played on the 1972 U. S. Olympic team at Munich. Ed's prep team at Columbus (Ohio) East had a 70-1 record and twice won the state title. Also a baseball pitcher of some talent, Ed turned down a Pittsburgh Pirate offer to enroll at Long Beach State.

RON RILEY 6-9 195 Forward

Age: 26 Birthdate: November 11, 1950

Birthplace: Los Angeles, Ca.

High School: Jordan

College: Southern California, 1972

Years Pro: 4

Children: Shanda, 6; Ronald, 4

Other than the basic starting five of Ed Ratleff, Rudy Tomjanovich, Kevin Kunnert, Calvin Murphy and Mike Newlin, no other Rocket has started more games over the past two seasons than veteran forward Ron Riley. He started 17 contests last season, for the most part in place of Ratleff who was sidelined with a foot injury. The year previous Ron found himself in the starting lineup on 32 occasions. But in and out of the starting spot has been the story of his four years as a pro. As a rookie with Kansas City he eventually worked his way into a starting berth, and then lost that job prior to being traded to the Rockets the nest season. He has never really won a starting job with the Rockets, mainly being called on as a starter due to an injury. But he accepts his reserve role and is willing to let the coaches make the decisions even though "it's tough. Sometimes I would start a couple of games and do a pretty good job, and the next thing I knew I wouldn't even get into the games. It can be pretty unsettling. I guess it's just up to me to really be sure I get the job done when I see playing time. I've always wanted to make a mark in this league and I still think I can." He's made a couple of small marks, like the 22 rebounds he had one night while with the Kings, and the 21 boards he grabbed last year at Los Angeles, Only Kevin Kunnert, Rudy Tomjanovich and Dwight Jones of the Rockets have had a 20rebound night. Ron set the Southern California school record for rebounds and as a senior ranked only behind Bill Walton in Pacific Eight Conference rebounding.

Ron Thomas is a four-year veteran of professional basketball, all four years spent with the Kentucky Colonels, who won the American Basketball Association 1974-75 championship. A crowd favorite who earned his popularity through hard work. Ron is described by new Rockets coach Tom Nissalke as a player who gives "maybe more than he has at all times." A native of Louisville, Ky., Ron played junior college ball at Henderson in Athens, Texas before going on to be a standout performer at the University of Louisville. Upon college graduation, he had a decision to make. The NFL Dallas Cowboys offered him a contract, and the Memphis Tams agreed to let him try out with them. Ron chose to try basketball, and then the Tams cut him. "I was pretty dejected," relates Ron, "but I went back to Louisville and was selling cars. The Colonels let me practice with them when the team was in town, and then they said I could play with them under contract for a few weeks on a temporary basis." History shows that Ron Thomas has been under contract ever since that January day in 1973. At 6-6 and 215, he was considered the Colonels strongest player and perhaps one of the strongest in the A.B.A. He closely resembles the pro footballer he nearly became. A former All-Stater in both football and in basketball at Thomas Jefferson high in Louisville. Thomas is described by former Kentucky-now Atlanta coach Hubie Brown as a "real scrapper on the boards. He listens to advise, tries to improve himself at all times, and plays agressive defense. He knows his job.

RUDY TOMJANOVICH 6-8 220 Forward

Age: 28 Birthdate: November 24, 1948

Birthplace: Hamtramck, Michigan

High School: Hamtramck College: Michigan, 1970

Years Pro: 6

How Acquired: College Draft, 1st Round, 1970 Pro High Game: 42, vs. Buffalo at Toronto,

For the third straight season, Houston Rockets forward Rudy Tomjanovich shot better than .50% from the field, upping his career field goal percentage to .503, fifth on the N.B.A.'s all-time list in that category. Only Kareem Abdul-Jabbar among active players has a higher percentage than Rudy "T" and only Terry Dischinger with a .506 mark has a higher percentage among the league's all-time forwards. Rudy's 18.5 scoring mark was third on the Rockets, the first time in four seasons he failed to lead the club in scoring. His 8.4 rebound mark trailed only Kevin Kunnert's 9.8 for the club leadership. A durable performer, Rudy has missed only seven games over the past four seasons, but began the last campaign with a badly bruised backbone, suffered in a freak training camp accident. The injury forced him to miss almost a month of camp and the first four pre-season games. He re-injured the back in a fall late in February at Cleveland which slowed him down again though he missed only three games. "It just wasn't a good year physically for me, but I believe the injuries have gone away and I feel anxious to get going. Two years ago when we made the playoffs it was a terrific feeling. It was a very positive thing. Last year we kind of took a small step backward. Now I hope we can regain some consistency. Actually looking back at all those overtime or one or two points losses, it could have been a very different and successful year for us," says Tomjanovich. Rudy has been named to the East team for the last three N.B.A. All-Star games, and he and John Johnson, while with Cleveland, are the only two present Rockets to have appeared in the mid-season classic. Rudy was honored with a day in his hometown of Hamtramck last season. He had led Hamtramck High to two state championships before going on to set the school rebound mark at Michigan while trailing only Cazzie Russell in scoring.

Rudy White, who was the Rockets third round pick in 1975 even though he had a year of college eligibility remaining, did not see much playing time in his rookie pro year until late in the season. In fact 15 of his 32 game appearances came after March 10. But an interesting note on his playing time came in the final two games of the season. On April 11 against Detroit he played 32 minutes, hit five of 10 field goal tries and two free throws and had four rebounds, and in the final game of the year at Atlanta, Rudy set his career scoring high as a pro, 14 points, on seven of 14 field goal tries, in only 17 minutes of play. Rudy was one of several Rockets to travel to Puerto Rico for a four-game series with that country's Olympic team and Rudy led the Rockets in scoring in three of the four games, including a 30-point evening. As his college coach at Arizona State, Ned Wulk, said a year ago, "He has great basketball instinct and natural ability and he's just learning to apply these tools." If his late season performances and his summer activity is any indication, Rudy's learning has taken giant strides. Not only was he an N.B.A. rookie last year, he was basically a rookie at the guard position, having played mainly forward in his final collegiate year. Observing him this summer, Coach Tom Nissalke said "He should see more playing time this season. He can handle the ball, he has a lot of poise and can be a good shooter." That is good news to Rudy who said last year that "It was a struggle to keep my confidence up." In his final college year Rudy averaged 14.3 points as Arizona State had a 25-4 mark and won two N.C.A.A. games before falling to national champ U.C.L.A. Rudy was a three-sport letter winner - basketball, baseball and football - at Union High in Phoenix and led his prep cage team to the 1971 state finals.

Last season, his fifth as a pro, was probably the most difficult campaign for Rockets veteran backup guard Dave Wohl. He played fewer minutes than ever before, because after February 15, he saw action in only four games as then coach John Egan started giving rookie Rudy White more playing time. Dave had been a starter on and off over his career but in the past few years seemed to have found a spot as the type of player used to change the tempo of a game. Sometimes he is used to get the team to slow down, other times to get a club running, and still on other occasions he was asked to step in and cool off a hot shooting opponent. A third round pick of Philadelphia in 1971, he was the first Penn player ever taken by the 76ers. He had an All-Ivy League career at Penn, in his last two seasons helping the Nittany Lions to a 53-3 record and two N.C.A.A. berths. As a rookie with the Sixers he trailed only Billy Cunningham and Hal Greer in assists. Traded to Portland for Dale Schleuter prior to the 72-73 season, he was waived in December, 1972 and picked up by Buffalo. He averaged 4.8 assists in 56 games with the Braves the remainder of that season, and then in February, 1974 he along with Kevin Kunnert came to the Rockets for Matt Guokas and Jack Marin. During the first few months of the 74-75 season Dave became a starter for the Rockets, and posted a career high of 29 points against Washington early that season. But Calvin Murphy regained the starting berth and Dave went beck to doing his usual good job of coming off the bench. A left-handed high school quarterback at East Brunswick, New Jersey high, Dave originally was recruited by Penn for football.

JOHN LUCAS 6-3 175 Guard

Age: 23 Birthdate: October 31, 1953 Birthplace: Durham, North Carolina High School: Hillside (Durham, N.C.)

College: Maryland, 1976

Years Pro: Rookie

How Acquired: College Draft, 1st Round, 1976 College High Games: 34, vs. N. Carolina St.,

1-28-76, at Wake Forest, 1-10-76

Bachelor

A consensus All-American the past two years at the University of Maryland, John Lucas was the top selection in the 1976 N.B.A. College Draft. The Rockets gained the top pick by trading draft choices with Atlanta and swapping Gus Bailey and Joe Meriweather to the Hawks in return for Dwight Jones. Maryland's all-time scoring leader with 2,015 points, an 18.3 average, Lucas is a take charge player, U.C.L.A. Coach Gene Bartow, who coached Lucas in the 1974 World Games when Lucas was named MVP, said at that time that if he were an N.B.A. general manager who had the first pick. Lucas would be that pick. "He's a leader, a winner and a great person," said Bartow. Lucas led Maryland to a 92-93 four-year record, an Atlantic Coast Conference title in 1975, and two N.C.A.A. berths. Additionally, he was named an All-American in tennis the past season when he had a 21-2 singles mark and won the ACC singles titles, a feat he also accomplished as a sophomore. He also signed a pro tennis contract with the Golden Gaters of the World Team Tennis league. New Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke says of Lucas: "He steps right in and plays. There's no doubt in my mind or he wouldn't have been our No. 1. He's like Lenny Wilkens used to be, he's got great floor sense and he directs a team. He has a great concept of the game of basketball." Lucas doesn't feel there is additional pressure on him because of being the top pick. "I've always been the type who puts pressure on myself to improve. We never won a national championship in college and that's what counts, being No. 1. All I want to do is help win a championship in any way I can." Lucas, whose parents are school principals in Durham, N.C., has set up a scholarship fund at his former high school, Hillside, where his father is the principal.

PHIL HICKS 6-7 205 Forward

Age: 23 Birthdate: January 31, 1953

Birthplace: Chicago, Illinois

High School: Brother Rice (Chicago, III.)

College: Tulane, 1976 Years Pro: Rookie

How Acquired: College Draft, 2nd Round,

1976

College High Game: 41, at Samford, 2-7-74

Married: Wife: Christie

Tulane's all-time scoring leader with 1,586 points, a 21.1 average. Phil Hicks was tabbed by the Rockets in the second round of the draft. The Green Wave's M.V.P. three straight seasons, Hicks last year averaged 20.6 points and 10.8 rebounds as his team posted one of the best records in school history, 18-9. Originally enrolled at Loyola in New Orleans, Hicks transferred to Long Beach State for a year but then returned to New Orleans to play at Tulane. He was a fourth round pick of Portland in 1975 but decided to finish school. Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke says: "Phil is a smart player who takes good percentage shots and is an excellent leaper." One of nine children, Phil and wife, Christie, a former Tulane cheerleader, were married this summer.

BARNES HAUPTFUHRER 6-7 200 Forward

Age: 22 Birthdate: April 29, 1954 Birthplace: Abington, Pennsylvania High School: Penn Charter (Phil., Pa.)

College: Princeton, 1976

Years Pro: Rookie

How Acquired: College Draft, 3rd Round, 1976 College High Game: 31, vs. Brown, 2-8-76

Bachelor

A three-year starter at Princeton who scored 1,079 points for a 13.0 average, Barnes Hauptfuhrer was the Rockets third round choice in the draft. Princeton posted a 60-23 mark during his career, winning the N.I.T. in 1975 and the lvy League title last season. Hauptfuhrer was all-lvy last year and all N.I.T. as a junior. At Penn Charter High in Philadelphia he won three letters each in basketball and golf and one in football. His father, George, was the first pick of the Boston Celtics in 1948 following a college career at Harvard, but he passed up pro basketball. Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke says: "Barnes is a smart player who has had good coaching. He's a fine defensive player."

SCHEDULE

Each team plays 19 other teams four times (two home - two road) and two other teams three times (two home - one road, one home- two road). A league drawing determined that for 1976-77 Golden State would visit Houston only once, and the Rockets would visit Denver only once.

PLAYOFFS

The four division winners automatically qualify for the playoffs along with the next four best records in each conference, making a total of 12 in the playoffs. In the first round, each division winner receives a bye. The other four best record teams in each conference will be ranked three through six according to winning percentage. A best of three series will be played between the third and sixth and between the fourth and fifth ranked teams. Following the first round all series will be on a best of seven basis.
